Parenting Workshop at Waccamaw Library

It's the most important job we'll ever have, but there are no college or high school courses that tell us how to do it effectively. Parenting tends to leave us with more questions than answers. Who do we want our children to be? What kind of memories do we want them to have of growing up? What kind of parents do we want them to remember?

The Waccamaw Library will host Jim R. Rogers, nationally certified parenting and family life educator, as he explores how to build a parent/child relationship that can weather the challenges of childhood and beyond. Roger's workshop, on August 27th, from 5:30 – 7 pm, will help you begin the process of building bonds of love, care, encouragement, support and guidance that give children a better opportunity to be successful throughout life. There will be plenty of time for questions on the challenges of modern parenting in a complex world.

The workshop is open to parents who want the best for their children, and those who are thinking about becoming parents.

Rogers earned his Master's Degree in Early Childhood Education from Coastal Carolina University. He is a member of the National Council on Family Relations, where he is certified as a Family Life Educator, and a member of the National Parenting Education Network. He is the author of "The Incredible Importance of Effective Parenting: Plain Talk from a Concerned Field Worker."

The event is free and open to the public. To register or for more information, please contact Steele Bremner at (843) 545-3363.
